Understanding fees

An 11% fee on any remaining statement balance will be charged to your account one calendar month after the end of the statement period. No fees will be charged if the statement balance is paid in full within one calendar month.

You may be eligible for a fee discount if the statement balance is paid in full before the due date, 10 months from the end of the statement period.

Fees paid year-to-date	$3,442.74
Fee discounts applied year-to-date	-$1,592.21

Information about your account

Avoiding fees

To avoid being charged fees altogether, pay each statement balance in its entirety by 3:00 PM ET on the last business day of the month following the close of the statement period.

Fee discounts

You may be eligible for fee discounts when statement balances are paid in full before their due date (10 months after the statement has been issued) so that the fee doesn't exceed the maximum effective annual percentage rate (APR) defined in your agreement.

Making a payment

You can make a manual payment at any time at Payment settings. Payments made after 3:00 PM ET are processed the following business day. Payments take 3 business days to post.

Processing payments

When you make a payment, you authorize us to initiate an ACH or electronic payment that will be debited from your bank account or other related account.

Payments are first applied to the oldest outstanding statement balance, then subsequently to the next oldest outstanding statement balances, then to the current billing cycle and any other amounts owed.

Changing your payment settings

You can change your payment settings at any time at Payment settings. You may be required to catch up on past statement balances if switching back to paying in full monthly.

Monthly late fees

In the event that a statement balance is not paid in full by its due date, your account will be locked and a fee of 2% of the outstanding statement balance will be incurred each month until it is paid in full.

Credits, refunds, and disputes won

Disputes can take up to 90 days to be resolved, depending on the complexity and the specifics dictated by network rules. Any disputes won, credits, or refunds, will be first applied to the oldest outstanding statement balance, and subsequently to each next oldest outstanding statement balance in sequence, and then to the current billing cycle, if any, until the credit is fully utilized, regardless of the billing cycle in which the originating charge was incurred.

Reward calculation and payout

Earn cashback rewards when you use your Shopify Credit card for eligible business purchases. Cashback is automatically applied to your Shopify Credit account as a statement credit after each monthly statement is calculated. More info on eligible business purchases can be found in the Help Center.

If you find a mistake in your statement

As a Shopify merchant, it's important to maintain oversight of your financial transactions, including those on your Shopify Credit account. If you encounter a transaction you believe is incorrect, then you have the option to dispute it. If you think there is an error on your statement, please reach-out to Support and describe what you believe is wrong and why you believe it is a mistake.

In instances where you suspect that your Shopify Credit card has been compromised, lost, stolen, or fraudulently used, you should cancel the card and request a replacement immediately to safeguard your account and prevent any further unauthorized activity.

Closing your account

To close your Shopify Credit account, contact Shopify Support directly. Make sure to settle any outstanding balances and ensure your account is in good standing before reaching out.
